Themis Bar Succes Resources

Dear 2L, 2E, and 3E Students,

We hope your fall semester is going well!

Earlier this year, we announced the University of Baltimore School of Law's new Institutional Partnership with Themis Bar Review (a UWorld company) and shared how this comprehensive initiative is designed to support students from orientation through the bar exam. We're following up now with more information about the Themis resources now available to you. Because this partnership begins after your first year, you will receive immediate access to the full library, including the first-year materials as well as the upper-level resources.

Resources this program includes:

- Upper-Level Law School Essentials, designed to supplement your upper-level year doctrinal courses.
    - On-demand substantive lectures
    - Outlines
    - Key concept sheets
    - Practice essay and multiple-choice questions with corresponding answer rationales and sample answers
    - Subjects include: Constitutional Law, Corporations, Criminal Procedure, Evidence, Trusts and Estates
    - Themis MPRE Preparation Course to help you prepare for the Multistate Professional Responsibility Examination, available to you now and in each remaining year of your program.
    - Continued access to the First-Year Law School Essentials program, covering Civil Procedure, Constitutional Law, Contracts and Sales, Criminal Law, Real Property, and Torts.
    - Continued access to the UWorld QBank, with nearly 2,000 practice multiple-choice questions

We encourage you to take advantage of these materials early and often. They are designed to complement your coursework, reinforce classroom learning, and help you build confidence as you steadily build the substantive knowledge and skills you'll need for the bar exam.

Should anything you see in these materials appear different from what you are learning in your courses, you should discuss it with your professor, who will be happy to clarify. Some of your professors may also incorporate such materials into your courses.

Soon, you will be receiving an email directly from our institutional partner, Themis Bar Review, with your login information and what to expect for pricing. This information will arrive from noreply@uworld.com. If you do not see this come through within the week, be sure to check your SPAM folder.

For additional information on the Institutional Partnership, please see our FAQ.

We look forward to continuing to support your success.

Sincerely,

Office of Academic Affairs
University of Baltimore School of Law
