SET FORTH THE RATIONALE FOR THIS PROPOSAL:

During the past six years, the history program has expanded its course offerings and devised innovative programs as UB transformed into a 4-year institution. This expansion led us to reexamine the program’s major requirements developed while UB was still an upper-division institution. After reviewing history requirements among institutions within the USM and other comparable institutions across the nation, the history faculty unanimously voted for the comprehensive restructuring of our curriculum and revision of the current course requirements. The new requirements reflect the strength of UB’s history program (in the field of American and legal history) while it continues to emphasizes diversity in topics and approaches to history. The addition of lower-division requirements provides comprehensive 4-year college curriculum for our majors. We also wish the three core requirements will help history majors’ conceptual understanding of the work of history.

If approved, the history majors will be required to take 3 core requirement (9 credits), 3 lower-division courses (9 credits), 4 upper-division courses (12 credits) from the Topics in American History, and 3 upper-division courses (9 credits) from the Topics of the Wider World.
