

University of Baltimore
Strategic Planning and Budgeting Committee

Charter (DRAFT August 5, 2016)

The University of Baltimore Strategic Planning and Budget Committee (SPBC) in consultation and dialogue with the President and the University community, supports and enhances the success of the University through evidence based-decision making relating to: strategic planning, assessment of institutional priorities, review of budgetary policies, and the evaluation of programs and services. All activities of the ~~planning and budgeting structure~~ SPBC are advisory to the President and the President's executive team.

In partnership with the University, SPBC:

- a. Guides the development and dissemination of the University's strategic plan.
- b. Identifies issues that facilitate or impede the pursuit of the University's mission.
- c. Provides advice on budget policies, significant budgetary actions and institutional priorities consistent with the strategic plan of the University.
- d. Assists in the evaluation of the effectiveness of plans, policies, and the assessments that affect the entire infrastructure of the University.
- e. Advises on the development of guidelines for setting planning and budgeting priorities.

Guiding Principles

- Strategic planning, long-term budgeting, and short-term budgeting must be mission driven. The mission and vision should be created in a participatory, consensual fashion. They should be reasonably specific, consistently followed, and constantly evaluated. It is essential that the University operate under a shared understanding of the mission, of definitions of centrality to the mission, of the strategic direction of the university, and with common criteria for the evaluation of our programs.
- Budgeting, planning, and quality evaluation are all part of the same process.
- The mission of the SPBC is to support the welfare of the entire University. As such, those who serve on the SPBC do so with the understanding that they represent the interests of the entire University community, not the interests of their respective units.
- At the center of the planning structure should be a University-level committee reporting directly to the President. All members of the University community must grant legitimacy and centrality to this advisory structure. As such, the composition of the University committee must grant obvious influence to critical constituencies.
- The SPBC will make regular reports to the university governance bodies as requested.
- This advisory structure will review and be consulted on significant budgetary actions – including such activities as enhancements, rescissions, annual budget plans – before their implementation.

- The SPBC should view the organizational structure of university through a wide lens. All decisions should be made using a university level perspective.
- The process must allow for substantial faculty and staff consultation and advice.
- The President’s Executive Team and the SPBC are responsible for the identification of cross-functional, or “horizontal” planning problems.
- The planning and budgeting process must rely on a defined set of data for basic functions of the University. The data available to the SPBC must include all appropriate financial and other relevant (e.g.: enrollment) data for each unit.
- Every academic and administrative unit should have a strategic planning and budgeting process. The University should provide advice and assistance in strategic planning any time it is sought by units in the University.
- The SPBC will meet at least twice per semester.
- As part of the University’s ongoing institutional effectiveness plan, the committee and its structure will be periodically reviewed to assess opportunities for revision. (An initial review of the SPBC is recommended in two years.)
