Tylis Cooper, academic program coordinator
Kristen Tull, academic program coordinator
www.ubalt.edu/cpa

The College of Public Affairs awards bachelor’s, master’s and doctoral degrees and certificate programs that prepare students for successful professional careers in the complex and diverse workplace of today and tomorrow. We provide our graduates with the theoretical knowledge and substantive skills they need to succeed and thrive in the organizations in which they work and to apply those skills to the problems they encounter. They learn to analyze administrative decisions, organizational issues and societal problems from multiple perspectives and to clearly communicate their thoughts and rationale to colleagues, senior management and stakeholders in ways that promote successful resolutions to problems.

The College of Public Affairs’ faculty members improve their fields through the students they teach and the research they contribute to expanding the knowledge base. They apply their expertise to helping public, nonprofit, health-care and third-sector organizations and to addressing pressing policy issues. They bring what they learn in the field back to the University to inform and enhance their students’ classroom experiences.

The college was established in 2010—incorporating existing, longstanding degree programs—as part of the University’s initiative to enhance UB’s distinction in the fields of public administration, criminal justice, and health and human services; to build upon institutional strengths in public service, applied research and interdisciplinary collaboration; and to continue the development of distinctive, robust and contemporary degree programs.

The college is home to the Schaefer Center for Public Policy; established in 1985, the center’s mission is to bring the University’s academic expertise to bear in solving problems faced by local, state, federal and nonprofit organizations. The center has a reputation for excellence in providing research, consulting and professional development services to help leaders and policy-makers in the Baltimore metropolitan area, in Maryland and beyond better manage their resources and programs. Through hundreds of sponsored research projects over the past 25 years, the center has provided opportunities for faculty members and students to engage in applied learning and research, positively impacting Maryland’s public sector.

SCHOOLS WITHIN THE COLLEGE
The College of Public Affairs is multidisciplinary in nature and comprises three distinct academic units. Faculty and staff come from a variety of academic backgrounds, including criminal justice, health, public administration, public policy, human services administration, conflict management, political science and international affairs. Through its teaching, research and public service activities, the college educates tomorrow’s leaders, informs public policymakers and improves the management effectiveness and operational efficiency of both public and nonprofit organizations.

- School of Criminal Justice
  Debra Stanley, executive director

  Kathleen Block, program director, B.S. in Criminal Justice
  Charles Tumosa, program director, B.S. in Forensic Studies
  Edgar Koch, program director, Certificate in Crime Scene Investigation
  Heather Pfeifer, program director, M.S. in Criminal Justice
  Debra Stanley, program director, M.S. in Forensic Science – High Technology Crime

  With its vibrant, urban location, the University of Baltimore is strategically positioned to take full advantage of its stimulating environment, promoting practical applications of its programs of study. The School of Criminal Justice orients its academic priorities toward integration with the real world, capitalizing on the very real city that acts as an extended classroom. With complementary emphases on applied research, policy and administration, the School of Criminal Justice offers undergraduate programs leading to degrees in both criminal justice and forensic studies and to a Certificate in Crime Scene Investigation and graduate programs leading to degrees in criminal justice and forensic science – high technology crime. In collaboration with the UB School of Law, the school also offers a dual-degree J.D./M.S. in Criminal Justice program and a dual-degree J.D./M.S. in Negotiations and Conflict Management. The University was the second institution in the nation to have both its graduate and undergraduate programs in criminal justice certified by the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences.

- School of Health and Human Services
  Christine Spencer, executive director

  John Callahan, program director, B.S. and M.S. in Health Systems Management
  Bridal Pearson, program director, B.A. and M.S. in Human Services Administration

  With our nation’s health-care system increasingly in the public eye and under scrutiny, management of our health and human services has never been so important. The School of Health and Human Services’ programs incorporate interdisciplinary, practical approaches—emphasizing in-service learning through internships and field experiences—to managing health care and human services in the public, private and nonprofit sectors. The school offers undergraduate programs in health systems management and human services administration. An accelerated bachelor’s/master’s option is also offered in both fields. The school also offers graduate programs in health systems management and human services administration.
• School of Public and International Affairs
  Larry Thomas, interim executive director

Lorenda Naylor, program director, B.A. in Government and Public Policy
Donald Haynes, program director, B.A. in International Studies; program co-director, M.A. in Global Affairs and Human Security
Heather Wyatt-Nichol, program director, Master of Public Administration (M.P.A.) and Certificate in Strategic Management and Public Accountability Systems
Ivan Sascha Sheehan, program director, M.S. in Negotiations and Conflict Management; program co-director, M.A. in Global Affairs and Human Security
Patria Julnes, program director, Doctor of Public Administration (D.P.A.)

With its abundance of government, public-sector and nonprofit organizations, the Baltimore-Washington metropolitan region is an ideal location to immerse oneself in public and international affairs. The School of Public and International Affairs offers undergraduate programs leading to degrees in government and public policy and in international studies. It also offers graduate programs leading to a master’s degree in public administration accredited by the National Association of Schools of Public Affairs and Administration and master’s degrees in negotiations and conflict management and in global affairs and human security; a doctoral degree in public administration; and an M.P.A./J.D., offered in collaboration with the UB School of Law. It also offers a post-bachelor’s Certificate in Strategic Management and Public Accountability Systems.

SCHAEFER CENTER FOR PUBLIC POLICY
Ann Cotten, director
Mary Lovegrove, assistant director

As the pre-eminent public-policy research center in Maryland, the Schaefer Center for Public Policy is committed to providing unbiased, nonpartisan research and professional development services; connecting faculty members with public-sector organizations through applied research and professional development programs; and providing students with opportunities to apply what they learn in the classroom to real-world challenges. The center’s principal services include program evaluation, policy research, strategic planning, needs assessment, staffing analysis and workforce planning, opinion research, conflict management consulting and professional development.

The center enhances the University’s academic environment by encouraging faculty and student applied research, fostering interdisciplinary research teams and supporting educational conferences. In addition, the center offers annual graduate fellowships and student employment experiences that provide students with unique opportunities to work closely with faculty members and researchers while gaining real-world experience through participation in center projects.

STUDENTS
The approximately 1,650 men and women enrolled in the College of Public Affairs—slightly more than half of them in undergraduate programs—represent about 19 percent of the total University of Baltimore student population.

About 52 percent of the college’s undergraduate students are enrolled full time. Many of the remainder are already working in a wide variety of careers, and most of the college’s students—whether undergraduate or graduate, full or part time—balance job, family and school responsibilities. Some students are seeking to advance their current careers while others are preparing to change careers. This diversity of age and experience is an important and invigorating part of classroom and campus life.

FACULTY
College of Public Affairs faculty members are leaders in teaching, research, scholarship and service to the community. Full-time faculty members teach both graduate and undergraduate courses; conduct sponsored research; publish papers and articles; and engage in public service as consultants, board members and volunteers. The college’s teaching faculty also includes a cadre of adjunct professors who are leading professionals in dozens of professions in government, nonprofit organizations and businesses. These adjunct faculty members help to ensure that our students are well prepared to meet the challenges of today’s professional workplace.

FACILITIES
Classrooms, laboratories and faculty offices for the College of Public Affairs are located in the Liberal Arts and Policy Building, in the Academic Center and in the Learning Commons. The college shares the University of Baltimore’s Langsdale Library, Office of Technology Services and Achievement and Learning Center with other components of the University.

The fourth floor of the Academic Center houses the state-of-the-art Jami R. Grant Forensic Laboratories—forensics instrumentation and microscopy laboratories—with classroom space; the labs were developed to serve as overflow labs for the Baltimore Police Department.

UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAMS

HELEN P. DENIT HONORS PROGRAM
Both faculty and students in the College of Public Affairs participate actively in the Helen P. Denit Honors Program. See the honors program section or visit www.ubalt.edu/honors.

ACADEMIC POLICIES AND INFORMATION

University-Wide Degree Requirements
See the University-Wide Degree Requirements section of this catalog.

Collegewide Degree Requirements
All College of Public Affairs bachelor’s degree candidates are required to:

• complete a minimum of 120 credits, including the specific requirements of their major, with a minimum cumulative grade point average of 2.0

• apply no more than 63 credit hours of community college coursework toward graduation

• earn a minimum grade of C (2.0) in all courses required for the major, including courses that are regarded as electives in the major. Some programs may have additional requirements or standards, which are specified in the program requirements in this catalog.

• apply no more than 30 credits in business courses toward requirements for the bachelor’s degree

• complete the last 30 credit hours required for the degree at the University of Baltimore.

Note: Any deviation from the program requirements described in the catalog requires the written permission of the dean of the College of Public Affairs.

ACADEMIC MINORS
Students who have completed 24 credit hours with a 2.0 cumulative GPA may declare a minor, which is a cohesive set of courses designed by faculty to provide students with an opportunity to cultivate skills and knowledge through concentrated study in an area that is not the major. Minors may focus on one discipline or may be interdisciplinary; they require 15-21 credits. Completing a minor is optional, and students should seek the guidance of an academic adviser when selecting a minor to understand how the minor requirements may be completed in conjunction with their degree.

For more information about minors offered and further requirements, see Academic Minors.
OPTIONS AND REQUIREMENTS FOR UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS TAKING GRADUATE COURSES

Undergraduate students who have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.2 and who have completed at least 90 credits applicable to a degree (senior standing) may request enrollment in graduate courses as part of their undergraduate degree. Enrollment requires the approval of the directors of both the undergraduate and graduate programs in question. With this arrangement, undergraduate students are permitted to take a maximum of 6 credit hours at the graduate level, and these credits are applied strictly to the undergraduate degree.

Undergraduate students taking graduate courses being applied to an undergraduate degree pay usual undergraduate tuition. Consequently, all application and approval forms must be completed prior to registration.

ACCELERATED BACHELOR’S/MASTER’S OPTION

Undergraduate students of recognized academic ability and educational maturity may fulfill the combined requirements of the college’s bachelor’s and master’s degrees via a variety of accelerated bachelor’s/master’s options. This is different from applying to enroll in graduate courses as part of the undergraduate degree, as described above.

This accelerated option requires a minimum of 141 credits, depending on the requirements of individual programs. A maximum of 9 graduate credits, completed at the undergraduate level, may be applied simultaneously to the requirements for the bachelor’s and master’s degrees. In some cases, students may cross disciplines. Those interested should discuss their proposals with the appropriate program directors.

To be eligible for an accelerated bachelor’s/master’s option, students must have a cumulative 3.5 GPA; to remain in the program, students must maintain a 3.5 GPA in their undergraduate coursework and a 3.0 GPA in their graduate courses.

To take advantage of the option, students need the approval of the dean of the college and of the appropriate graduate and undergraduate program directors and must elect to take advantage of the option prior to beginning the last 30 credits of their undergraduate degree. Moreover, students must secure approval for participating in the option as special students in the appropriate graduate program and pay the applicable fees.

Students taking advantage of this accelerated option may register for up to 9 credits of graduate coursework during the last 30 hours of their undergraduate degree. The undergraduate and graduate program directors will select the appropriate graduate courses for each student upon election of the option. These courses may not include independent study or research, individual research, directed study, thesis, internship or practicum courses. Changes in the program of study require approval of both the undergraduate and graduate program directors.

Students must be in continuous enrollment at the University of Baltimore for this agreement to remain in effect. Those who fail to maintain the eligibility requirements will be dropped from the accelerated option. Applicability (if any) of graduate courses to the undergraduate degree will be determined on an individual basis. Students should be aware that graduate courses applied to both undergraduate and graduate degrees at the University may not transfer as graduate credits to another institution.
In addition to electing the accelerated bachelor’s/master’s option, a separate application for admission to the graduate program (including payment of applicable fees) must be completed during the final semester of the bachelor’s program. Admission to the graduate program must be effective the first regular semester after completing the credits required for the bachelor’s degree so that there is no break in studies.

LAW SCHOOL AUTOMATIC ADMIT OPTION
Students who graduate from a University of Baltimore undergraduate program with a cumulative cross-institutional grade point average of 3.35 or better as computed by the Credential Assembly Service and an LSAT score of 154 or better can be automatically admitted into the entering class of the UB School of Law following their graduation.

Admission is for the fall semester only (note that the law school cannot make an admission decision until students have completed 75 credits of undergraduate coursework), and a completed application must be submitted by April 1. Students should take the LSAT no later than February of the calendar year in which they would like to enter law school.
Note that if students answer yes to any one of the character and fitness questions on the UB School of Law application, they are not eligible for automatic admission; instead, their application will be forwarded to the admissions committee for a complete review. Character and fitness questions concern information regarding academic and disciplinary probation, criminal offenses, civil suits and employment termination.

The UB School of Law does not ensure acceptance into the full-time day program; students may be admitted to the full-time day program, the part-time day program or the evening program. The law school reserves the right to increase the grade point average and the LSAT score required on an annual basis.

For more information about this option, contact the Office of Law Admissions at 410.837.4459 or lawadmissions@ubalt.edu.

LAW SCHOOL EARLY ENTRY OPTION

Available to students enrolled in the B.A. in Government and Public Policy program, this option allows students’ first year of enrollment at the University of Baltimore School of Law to fulfill the requirements of their last year of undergraduate study. It requires a cumulative cross-institutional grade point average of 3.5 or better as computed by the Credential Assembly Service and an LSAT score of 155 or better. This option is available only if students are continuously enrolled at the University from their undergraduate major into their law school education.

To pursue the option, students must complete the 93 undergraduate credits required for their degree and complete a minimum of 33 credits at UB, excluding AP, IB, DANTES, CLEP or challenge examinations. Students must complete all lower- and upper-division general-education requirements and apply to the UB School of Law. Admission is for the fall semester only (note that the law school cannot make an admission decision until students have completed 75 credits of undergraduate coursework), and a completed application must be submitted by April 1. Students should take the LSAT no later than February of the calendar year in which they would like to enter law school.

Note that students must apply for graduation during the last semester of their first year of law school to receive their bachelor’s degree.

If students answer yes to any one of the character and fitness questions on the UB School of Law application, they are not eligible for early entry; instead, their application will be forwarded to the admissions committee for a complete review. Character and fitness questions concern information regarding academic and disciplinary probation, criminal offenses, civil suits and employment termination.

Law school admission may be into the full-time day program or the part-time day program, as determined by the School of Law. The law school reserves the right to increase the grade point average and the LSAT score required on an annual basis.

For more information about this option, contact the Office of Law Admissions at 410.837.4459 or lawadmissions@ubalt.edu.

For more detailed information about B.A. in Government and Public Policy requirements, see the program description.
SECOND BACHELOR’S DEGREES
Students who have previously earned a bachelor’s degree, at either the University of Baltimore or another accredited institution, may earn a second bachelor’s degree in a different degree program. Students must complete a minimum of 30 credits in residence at the University of Baltimore, applicable only to the second degree, and satisfy all of the departmental requirements for the degree, but they are not required to fulfill general-education or University-wide course requirements. No University of Baltimore courses taken to complete the first bachelor’s degree can be retaken to complete the second bachelor’s degree.

Credits used to satisfy a first degree at the University of Baltimore may not be applied toward the 30-credit residency requirement for the second degree. In some cases, this policy may require the substitution of courses in the major, other than those specified by the second-degree program. Students interested in pursuing a second bachelor’s degree should consult with the appropriate program director before making a formal application through the Office of Transfer Admission and Community College Relations. Information about applying for a second bachelor’s degree may be found in the Admission section of this catalog.

INDEPENDENT STUDY
To meet student interests and need, programs within the College of Public Affairs offer independent study courses.

Students must obtain the permission of their program director before registering for an independent study course; the instructor supervising the independent study should also have agreed to the student’s enrollment.

CRIME SCENE INVESTIGATION, UPPER-DIVISION UNDERGRADUATE CERTIFICATE
(available to students once they have completed a minimum of 60 credits; may require that additional criteria be met, and courses to fulfill this major may not be available during the day)

www.ubalt.edu/crimescene

Edgar Koch, program director
FACULTY: Koch, Tumosa
ADJUNCT FACULTY: Bailey, Tress

Demand is growing nationwide for crime scene investigators, both in security and police fields. These fields require investigators who not only are familiar with the procedures to record and process crime scenes appropriately but who also have the relevant investigative skills. This 12-credit, four-course undergraduate certificate program offers students the courses necessary to become a crime scene investigator within the police framework and can be completed in one year or less.

The certificate is ideally suited to students who have a different undergraduate degree and are interested in changing their career paths, who are currently crime scene investigators but lack the academic credentials and require continuing education or who do not possess a science degree and are looking for an alternative path to becoming a crime scene investigator.

Students in the program learn how to protect and secure a crime scene, how to fully document the crime scene using text and photography, how to record and collect evidence, maintaining the scientific integrity of the evidence in addition to the legal chain of custody, and how to present and defend the findings of the investigation within a legal framework, either in courts or in deposition.

This certificate is not certified for financial aid eligibility as a stand-alone program; if you apply to and enroll in this program only, financial aid cannot be used.

FACILITIES

Students in the Crime Scene Investigation program complete laboratory coursework in the University’s Jami R. Grant Forensic Laboratories, which feature state-of-the-art instrumentation and serve as reserve crime labs for the Baltimore Police Department. In these laboratories, students learn the basics of evidence collection, processing and analytical techniques. In addition, students work with professionals from local and federal agencies to gain a practical understanding of current investigative procedures and techniques. University facilities include a full law library that gives students access to a wide range of legal resources.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

Applicants must meet the University’s general admission requirements as well as the following program-specific requirements:

- a 2.0 cross-institutional cumulative grade point average
- a minimum of 60 transferable credits
- successful completion of CRJU 200: Criminal Justice or an equivalent course or experience in a law enforcement agency, as determined by the program director.

CERTIFICATE REQUIREMENTS (12 credits)

- FSCS 307 Crime Scene Investigation
- FSCS 440 Advanced Crime Scene Investigation
- FSCS 460 Forensic Photography
- FSCS 482 Moot Court and Trial Advocacy for Forensics

COMMUNITY STUDIES AND CIVIC ENGAGEMENT, BACHELOR OF ARTS

www.ubalt.edu/communitystudies

Laura Wilson-Gentry, program director
FACULTY: Percy
ADJUNCT FACULTY: Aydokovich, Crouch, Gamber, McNeely, Pearl, Stein, Thomas
The B.A. in Community Studies and Civic Engagement program is administered by the Office of the Dean. An undergraduate degree in community studies and civic engagement prepares committed students to work to improve their communities. In their coursework, students move beyond the boundaries of the University to discover trends and practices for initiating innovations in social, political and economic spheres. This interdisciplinary program encompasses courses in entrepreneurship, history, communication, philosophy, government, economics, accounting, and negotiations and conflict management.

Through a variety of courses, internships and co-curricular activities, students explore the historical and philosophical foundations of the nonprofit sector. Service-learning components provide opportunities to develop skills in resource and program development, strategic communication, organizational accountability, volunteer recruitment, human resource management and social entrepreneurship. Students benefit from courses taught by professor/practitioners who are experts in philanthropy and nonprofit organizations. Students also complete a capstone experience based on a semester-long internship with a community-serving nonprofit organization. Upon graduation, they will have completed at least 300 hours of experiential learning.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS
See the Admission section of this catalog.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS
In addition to fulfilling the requirements of the major, all bachelor’s degree candidates are required to fulfill the collegewide degree requirements outlined under College of Public Affairs, Academic Policies and Information.

Information Literacy
Students in the B.A. in Community Studies and Civic Engagement program will meet the University of Baltimore Information Literacy requirement by successful completion of one of the following:
- CSCE 301: Introduction to Nonprofit Leadership
- IDIS 110: Introduction to Information Literacy.

General-Education Requirements (43 credits)
In the face of pressing economic and social challenges, it is critical that University of Baltimore graduates be able to communicate effectively in many different modes; to gather, synthesize and critically evaluate information; to make ethical and evidence-based decisions within real-world contexts; to understand systems and to think systemically; and to negotiate divergent and competing perspectives.

See the University-Wide Degree Requirements section for details regarding general-education requirements at the University of Baltimore.

For this major, the preferred general-education courses to satisfy the Social and Behavioral Science I requirement is CSCE 100: Urban Solutions or CSCE 200: Understanding Community.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE, BACHELOR OF SCIENCE

www.ubalt.edu/criminology

Kathleen Block, program director
FACULTY: Block, Cantora, Johnson, Pfeifer, Ross, Seabrook, Stanley, Wright
ADJUNCT FACULTY: Kinlock, Mabrey

The undergraduate B.S. degree in Criminal Justice is administered through the School of Criminal Justice; the University of Baltimore is only the second institution in the nation to have both its undergraduate and graduate criminal justice programs certified by the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences. The key objective of the criminal justice program is to meet the educational needs of individuals planning criminal justice careers and those of individuals already enjoying criminal justice careers. The program is designed to build on and complement prior academic work and professional experience. The program integrates theory and practice in the study of crime and criminal justice.

The program’s coursework is designed to ensure that all majors develop a basic grounding in the substance and methods of the field while being provided with sufficient flexibility to pursue individual interests.

The criminal justice core encompasses surveys of the criminal justice system, criminological theory, professional studies, research design and analysis, and a capstone course integrates the materials from the other core courses in a special project completed by each student.

Area courses ensure that a student’s upper-level work in criminal justice includes at least one course focusing on each of the major components of the criminal justice system (law enforcement, courts and law, and correction) while minimizing possible course duplication with lower-division courses taken elsewhere.

Elective courses, which may focus on such subjects as prevention and comparative criminal justice systems, broaden the study of criminal justice beyond discussion of U.S. criminal justice systems. Other electives, focusing on such subjects as white-collar crime and victimology, provide in-depth analysis of specific topics and issues. The internship, required of pre-service students with no prior criminal justice internship experience, is designed to ensure that students experience direct contact with criminal justice operations while having the opportunity to explore career interests.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

See the Admission section of this catalog.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

In addition to fulfilling the requirements of the major, all bachelor’s degree candidates are required to fulfill the collegewide degree requirements outlined under College of Public Affairs, Academic Policies and Information.

FORENSIC STUDIES, BACHELOR OF SCIENCE
(available to students once they have completed a minimum of 56 credits; may require that additional criteria be met, and courses to fulfill this major may not be available during the day)
www.ubalt.edu/forensics

Charles Tumosa, program director
FACULTY: Koch, Tumosa
ADJUNCT FACULTY: Bailey, Lilly, Mabrey, Moore, Shegogue, Southall, Tress

The Forensic Studies program, offered by the School of Criminal Justice, incorporates science, criminal investigation and the law to provide a comprehensive understanding of the evidentiary process. This academic approach familiarizes students with the major components of the criminal justice process, from the investigation and collection of crime-scene evidence to its scientific evaluation and subsequent presentation in court. The program offers broad preparation in substantive areas of the field with the opportunity for an in-depth exploration of forensic science or police science.

Developed in partnership with the Baltimore Police Department, the curriculum includes theoretical and applied coursework. This partnership provides experiential learning opportunities with law enforcement and scientific personnel to produce graduates with the skills and experience needed to assume positions as either forensic science specialists or criminal investigators.

Students enter the Forensic Studies program from diverse backgrounds, contributing an array of skills and knowledge that enlivens the learning process. Students in the police sciences concentration are seeking employment in law enforcement or are pursuing a bachelor’s degree to advance in their field. They enter the program with coursework in criminal justice, the social sciences or general studies. The forensic science concentration attracts students who are searching for a way to apply their interests and background in science to a compelling, practical career. These students may have an associate degree in a physical science or have completed lower-level coursework in chemistry, physics and biology.

FACILITIES

The fields of forensic and police science are becoming increasingly sophisticated, with rapidly changing technologies accelerating this trend.

Students in the Forensic Studies program complete laboratory coursework in the University’s Jami R. Grant Forensic Laboratories, which feature state-of-the-art instrumentation and serve as reserve crime labs for the Baltimore Police Department. In these laboratories, students learn the basics of evidence collection, processing and analytical techniques. In addition, students work with professionals from local and federal agencies to gain a practical understanding of current investigative procedures and techniques. University facilities include a full law library that gives students access to a wide range of legal resources.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

Forensic Studies is a selective major with limited enrollment based on the space available. Applicants must meet the University’s general admission requirements as well as the following program-specific requirements:

- a cross-institutional GPA of 2.75 or better
- completion of COSC 100: Introduction to Computer Technologies or an equivalent transferable course; this course also fulfills a general-education requirement
- completion of the admission application process by:
  - June 1 for the fall semester
  - Nov. 1 for the spring semester.

Applications received after the deadline dates will be considered depending on availability of space, strength of your credentials and sufficiency of time for processing.
Special consideration may be given to other applicants whose GPA is at least 2.5 and who have at least five years’ relevant professional experience. In these cases, a resume is required, and an interview with the program director may be requested.

Applicants who do not meet these criteria for admission (but do meet requirements for undergraduate admission) may select the B.S. in Criminal Justice program. If these students earn a cross-institutional cumulative GPA of 2.75 within 24 credits of admission to UB, they may petition for a change of major to the Forensics Studies program. If they wish to enter the forensic science concentration, they must also have met the sciences requirements (see below) at that time.

See also the Admission section of this catalog and specific information for concentrations below.

PRE-REGISTRATION REQUIREMENT
For either concentration, a background check and urinalysis must be completed prior to initial registration. Information about this requirement is sent with the letter of admission.

Degree Requirements are listed separately for each concentration.

FORENSIC SCIENCE
This concentration prepares professionals to work in laboratory settings on the scientific analysis of evidence and thus requires a strong background in the physical sciences. It includes the following prerequisite lab courses:

- Biology I
- Chemistry I and II
- Organic Chemistry I and II
- Physics I and II.

Forensic science concentration applicants must have completed at least five of these science courses with a GPA of 2.5 and have no science grade lower than C (2.0). Preference is given to students who have completed all seven science courses with the specified standards.

When a student is admitted without having met all science prerequisites, the time required to complete the degree will be extended by at least one semester.

Special consideration may be given to other applicants whose overall GPA is at least 2.5 and who meet the science requirements outlined here and who have at least five years of relevant professional experience. In these cases, a resume is required, and an interview with the program director may be requested.

Spring admission may prolong the completion of the degree by at least one semester because of the course scheduling sequence.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS
In addition to fulfilling the requirements of the major, all bachelor’s degree candidates are required to fulfill the collegewide degree requirements outlined under College of Public Affairs, Academic Policies and Information.
Information Literacy

Students in the B.S. in Forensic Studies program will meet the University of Baltimore Information Literacy requirement by successful completion of:

- IDIS 110: Introduction to Information Literacy.

General-Education Requirements (43 credits)

In the face of pressing economic and social challenges, it is critical that University of Baltimore graduates be able to communicate effectively in many different modes; to gather, synthesize and critically evaluate information; to make ethical and evidence-based decisions within real-world contexts; to understand systems and to think systemically; and to negotiate divergent and competing perspectives.

See the University-Wide Degree Requirements for details regarding general-education requirements at the University of Baltimore.

Forensic Science Concentration Requirements (43 credits)

Core Courses (15 credits)

Because the work of police and forensic specialists overlaps, it is important for each professional to understand the vocabulary and procedures of the other. This understanding facilitates communication and fosters cooperation in work settings. The required foundation courses, taken by all students, provide this background. Specifically, the classes help students develop a basic understanding of science, investigation and the law.

GOVERNMENT AND PUBLIC POLICY, BACHELOR OF ARTS
www.ubalt.edu/publicpolicy

Lorenda A. Naylor, program director
FACULTY: Barqueiro, Callahan, Darling, Haynes, Henderson, Naylor, Percy, Swaim, Thomas, Willis, Wilson-Gentry, Wyatt-Nichol

ADJUNCT FACULTY: Crites, McGrath, Payne, Wells

The undergraduate B.A. degree in Government and Public Policy is administered through the School of Public and International Affairs. The program focuses on political institutions and processes, with particular applications to Maryland government and politics. Students gain a strong foundation in government and public policy and their role in society.

A major in government and public policy offers students a broad-based education, which equips them to adapt to a wide variety of careers. This is particularly true for students seeking careers in state and local government, corporate public affairs, the federal bureaucracy, the foreign service and campaign management as well as in organizations that monitor political processes or seek to influence the content of public policy.

Government and public policy is also a solid undergraduate major for students preparing for law school. Although no one discipline can best prepare students for the legal profession, specific courses in government and public policy illuminate the critical relationships between law and politics. The program regularly offers courses in American political institutions, constitutional law, administrative law, judicial processes, civil liberties, political theory, public administration and international relations. Combined with other offerings in government and public policy, philosophy, history, economics, business and English, such courses establish a curriculum that provides the broad-based knowledge needed by persons entering the legal profession.

The B.A. in Government and Public Policy program allows students flexibility to develop their individual interests at the same time it emphasizes basic theories and methodological techniques. The approach to the study of governmental processes and public administration is applied, research-oriented and practical. Students have an opportunity to gain experience working in government agencies, political campaigns, court systems, legislative bodies and other related organizations through internships that provide academic credit.

National honor societies Pi Sigma Alpha and Pi Alpha Alpha provide opportunities for networking and fellowship through discussion groups, speaker series and an annual awards ceremony.

HEALTH SYSTEMS MANAGEMENT, BACHELOR OF SCIENCE

(available to students once they have completed a minimum of 56 credits; may require that additional criteria be met, and courses to fulfill this major may not be available during the day)

www.ubalt.edu/healthsystemsmanagement

This program is also offered Saturdays at the Universities at Shady Grove (USG).

John Callahan, director

FACULTY: Callahan, Gammon, Gillingham, Y. Kang, Lyles, Molinari, Naylor, Spencer

ADJUNCT FACULTY: DiFranco, Dougherty, Gillanders, Huddleston, Kaelin, Richardson, Schneider

The Health Systems Management program is housed in the School of Health and Human Services and is offered in a face-to-face format Saturdays at both the University of Baltimore campus and at the Rockville, Md., campus of the Universities at Shady Grove. Courses are offered in the fall, spring and summer semesters and are offered online as well as in the classroom.

This program is designed to provide the initial undergraduate education for professional careers in health services management. Health care administration education requires a strong liberal arts foundation to prepare health service managers for leadership roles in a complex, diverse and multicultural society. The program combines a classic liberal education along with conceptual and technical competence in the health systems management field.

Providing students with sound conceptual and practical knowledge of management skills is a key focus of health systems management. A general awareness of the interplay of social, political, economic, technological, cultural and environmental factors of health services management and administration is pivotal for both current and future managers. The program develops managerial knowledge, analytical ability and communication skills and graduates students who are technically competent and well rounded. In addition to preparing students for managerial positions in health services administration, this degree also qualifies them for entry into graduate and professional schools.

The program is certified by the Association of University Programs in Health Administration, and in accordance with the association’s recommendations, the curriculum specifically provides:

- an understanding of the organization, financing and delivery of health services within a multidisciplinary context
• an understanding and assessment of the health status of populations including determinants of health and disease and factors influencing the use of health services

• an understanding of the values and ethical issues associated with the practice of health services administration that will foster the development of ethical analysis skills

• opportunities for development of leadership potential

• experience in economics, financial policy, quantitative analysis, organizational theory and practice, human and information resources, assessment of organizational performance and knowledge of methods to ensure continuous improvement in the quality of services provided.

The Health Systems Management program is offered on Saturdays, and some courses in other disciplines may also be taken online and during the week at the Baltimore campus. The curriculum can be completed in two years by students entering with an associate degree (A.A./A.S.) or 56 transferable credits. Registered nurses (RNs) and radiologic technologists (RTs) who are licensed in Maryland are awarded 60 transfer credits.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS
Those students applying to the program at the Universities at Shady Grove must have a minimum of 60 transferable credits, as opposed to a minimum of 56 credits otherwise. For more information, see the Admission section of this catalog.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS
In addition to fulfilling the requirements of the major, all bachelor’s degree candidates are required to fulfill the collegewide degree requirements outlined under College of Public Affairs, Academic Policies and Information.

Undergraduate majors must complete a minimum of 33 credits in health systems management. Students may take up to 6 nonclassroom contact credits in either HSMG 470: Individual Research or HSMG 492: Internship, or 3 credits in Individual Research and 3 credits in Internship.

Information Literacy
Students in the B.S. in Health Systems Management program will meet the University of Baltimore Information Literacy requirement by successful completion of one of the following:

• HSMG 300: Health Indicators

• IDIS 110: Introduction to Information Literacy.

General-Education Requirements (43 credits)
In the face of pressing economic and social challenges, it is critical that University of Baltimore graduates be able to communicate effectively in many different modes; to gather, synthesize and critically evaluate information; to make ethical and evidence-based decisions within real-world contexts; to understand systems and to think systemically; and to negotiate divergent and competing perspectives.

See the University-Wide Degree Requirements for details regarding general-education requirements at the University of Baltimore.

HUMAN SERVICES ADMINISTRATION, BACHELOR OF ARTS
www.ubalt.edu/humanservicesadministration

Bridal Pearson, program director
FACULTY: Collins, Molinari, Parkman, Pearson, Spencer
ADJUNCT: Crites, Payne

Offered through the School of Health and Human Services, this program is designed to provide students with specific knowledge and practical skills in human services, within the context of a broad interdisciplinary liberal arts education. The core curriculum is designed to address the ever-changing needs of human services organizations. The program affords in-service personnel an opportunity for increased professionalism, career advancement and higher education. For others, it offers pre-professional career preparation.

Students with an associate degree in human services should find this program particularly appealing; however, such associate degree programs are not a requirement for admission to this bachelor’s program. This program was originally developed in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Human Resources.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS
See the Admission section of this catalog.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS
In addition to fulfilling the requirements of the major, all bachelor’s degree candidates are required to fulfill the collegewide degree requirements outlined under College of Public Affairs, Academic Policies and Information.

INTERNATIONAL STUDIES, BACHELOR OF ARTS
www.ubalt.edu/internationalstudies

Donald Haynes, program director

FACULTY: Barqueiro, Botes, Gillingham, Haynes, Henderson, Hudgins, Kassner, Ross, Scalet, Sheehan, Swaim, Windmueller, Yi

This program, offered through the School of Public and International Affairs, takes a critical look at evolving global systems and introduces students to the importance of thinking and operating on an international level. Global interdependencies—social, economic and political—have powerful implications for local, regional and national entities, and those implications cannot be ignored. In turn, America has powerful impacts on the political, economic and cultural life in other countries.

Through this integrated, interdisciplinary major, students gain a comprehensive understanding of world affairs. They explore theoretical approaches to international relations as well as global history, cross-national politics, international organizations and law and international ethics.

Combining courses from the social sciences, history, philosophy and business, the program is ideal for those who want to equip themselves to lead in the global community. With this degree, students are prepared to analyze global conditions and work creatively in such fields as international business; local, state and national government; nongovernmental organizations (NGOs); the foreign service; international companies; and international and comparative research organizations.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS
See the Admission section of this catalog.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS
In addition to fulfilling the requirements of the major, all bachelor’s degree candidates are required to fulfill the collegewide degree requirements outlined under College of Public Affairs, Academic Policies and Information.
