Preface

The University of Baltimore Factbook 2019 is in its fourth release. It is expanded considerable, with the aim of adding information that may not otherwise be readily available. The aim is to produce a handy and timely "go-to" document of information about the University's student, faculty, staff, resources, and activities. As such, it will be of interest to various University stakeholders, including prospective and current students and their families, alumni, our faculty and staff, state and local governments, and other having general interest in the University.

The information has been complied by the University's Office of Institutional Research, but the report draws on broad resources and personnel across the University, whose support is much appreciated.

Your comments and suggestions are welcomed, and these may be emailed to institutional.research@ubalt.edu .An online version of the Factbook may be found at http://www.ubalt.edu/institutional_effectiveness/institutional_research/

Mission Statement

The University of Baltimore provides innovative education in business, public affairs, the applied liberal arts and sciences, and law to serve the needs of a diverse population in an urban setting. A public university, the University of Baltimore offers excellent teaching and a supportive community for undergraduate, graduate, and professional students in an environment distinguished by academic research and public service.

The University makes excellence accessible to traditional and nontraditional students motivated by professional advancement and civic awareness; establishes a foundation for lifelong learning, personal development and social responsibility; combines theory and practice to create meaningful, real-world solutions to 21st-century urban challenges; and is an anchor institution, regional steward, and integral partner in the culture, commerce, and future development of Baltimore and the region.

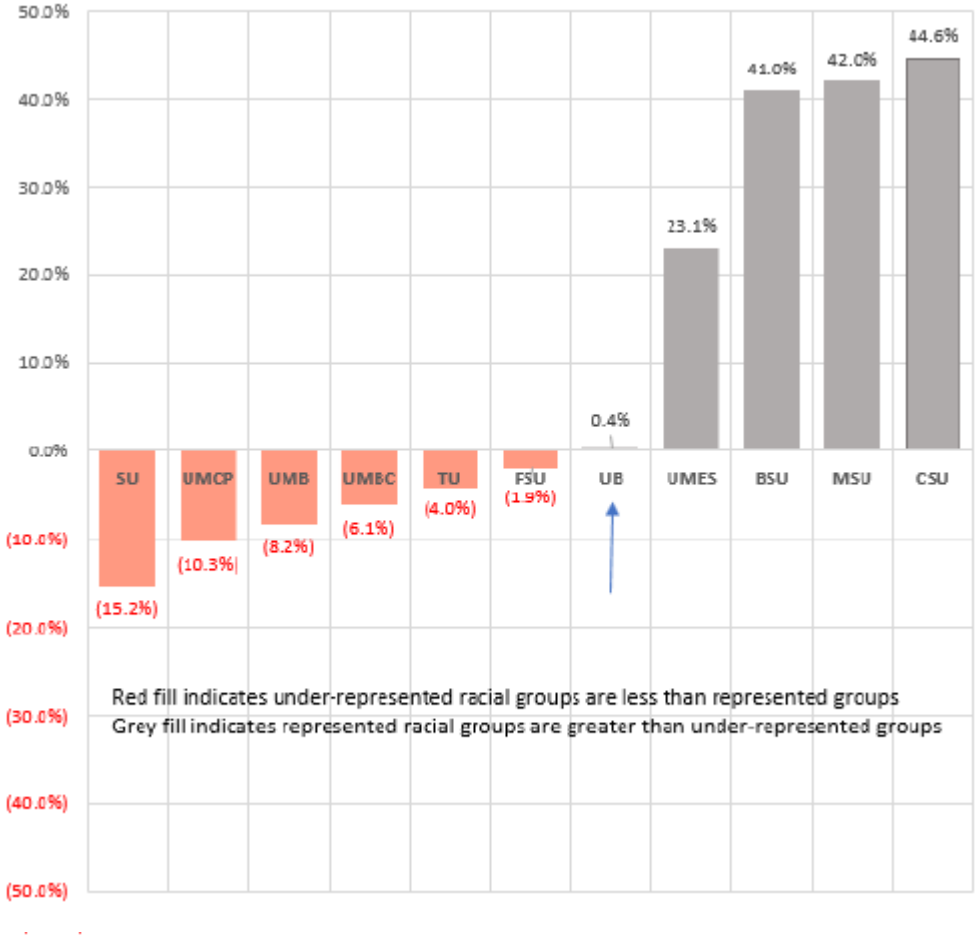
% Balanced Diversity in the University System of Maryland by Institution

Fall 2018



Notes:

A diversity index as here defined range, from0% to 50% and is the likelihood of randomly selecting two students of which one is from a in underrepresented racial group and the other from a represented racial group.

A score of 50% shows an equal balance among the racial groups a score of 0% shown only a single racial group.

As this is a campus diversity index., suggesting the likelihood of a students of various racial groups encountering each other in a campus setting, the University of Maryland-University College was excluded as it is principally a distance-education institution.

Historically Black Institutions (HBIs) are intentionally structured to promote minority opportunities, and will accordingly be less racially diverse.

Explanatory notes:

(a) A diversity index as here defined ranges from 0% to 50% and is the likelihood of randomly selecting two students of which one is from an underrepresented racial group and the other is from a represented racial group.

(b) A score of 50% shows an equal balance among the racial groups; a score of 0% shown only a single racial group.

(c) As this is a campus diversity index, suggesting the likelihood of a students of various racial groups encountering each other in a campus setting, the University of Maryland-University College was excluded as it is principally a distance-education institution.

(d) Historically Black Institutions (HBIs) are intentionally structured to promote minority opportunities, and will accordingly be less racially diverse.

(e) Data will be lagged one year owing to the timing of its availability from the universities that are not members of the University System of Maryland, i.e., St. Mary's College of Maryland and Morgan State University.

Definitional notes:

[1] An HBI institution, stands for Historically Black Institution (also known as, Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCU))

[2] Diversity Index equals 1-((column (5)^2 + (column (6)^2)

* To protect student privacy, values of 10 or fewer are masked. Single suppressed values cannot be calculated from previous totals due to the exclusion of Upper Division Certificates, Post-baccalaureate Certificates, and Research Doctorates from this analysis.

^ To protect student privacy, when other award types were not conferred, degrees were combined when one degree contained values of 10 or fewer. These values match previously reported totals and may or may not include Upper Division Certificates, Post-baccalaureate

Law School Library

The University of Baltimore Law School Library is located in the John and Frances Angelos Law Center, the first LEED Platinum-certified law school in the country. The library is over 34,000 square feet and is located on the seventh through the twelfth floors. Completed in 2013, the Angelos Law Center has been featured in several architectural and design publications. The building is 12 stories high and is comprised of three interlocking L-shaped facades with an open interior design, a green roof, and a high-performance glass exterior. The Library has 30 group study rooms, and an outdoor patio.

The Library maintains a print collection of approximately 30,000 volumes, with a similar number of titles in microform. Most legal research is now performed in electronic databases, and the Library manages subscriptions to all major legal information providers and provides access to thousands of legal treatises and periodicals.

It is a selective federal depository library in the Federal Depository Library Program (FDLP).
